1. Ownership and Moral Rights

In compliance with Law 23 of 1982 (Articles 30 and related provisions of Colombian Copyright Law) and Decision 351 of the Commission of the Cartagena Agreement (Andean Community of Nations - CAN), the authors declare that they are the exclusive holders of the moral and economic copyright of the submitted work.

The authors retain full copyright ownership of their manuscript and do not transfer intellectual property title to J-SAIR.

2. Grant of Non-Exclusive Publication License

By submitting their work to J-SAIR, the authors grant the journal a non-exclusive, royalty-free, perpetual, and worldwide license to:

- Edit, typeset, reproduce, publish, preserve, and publicly communicate the work in digital, printed, or any other technological format current or future.
- Assign and integrate persistent identifiers (such as Digital Object Identifiers - DOI upon completion of registration agency procedures, and stable official URLs), and manage its indexing in scientific databases, repositories, and indexing systems.
- Adapt the technical format of the file to ensure long-term digital preservation (e.g., conversion to PDF, HTML, XML-JATS).

3. Distribution under Creative Commons License

The authors agree that, upon publication, their work will be distributed under the international Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International License (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0).

This license allows third parties to download, share, and redistribute the work, provided that appropriate credit is given to the authors, J-SAIR is properly cited as the venue of first publication, and the material is not used for commercial purposes nor are derivative works generated without explicit authorization from the authors.

4. Warranties of Originality, Unpublished Status, and Conflicts of Interest

The authors declare under penalty of perjury that:

- a) Originality: The work is an original creation of the signing authors and does not infringe upon third-party intellectual property rights.

- b) Unpublished Status: The manuscript has not been previously published in any other journal or public dissemination medium, nor is it currently under review or evaluation by another publication.
- c) Citations and Sources: All bibliographic references, data, figures, and third-party materials incorporated have been properly cited and accredited in accordance with fair use and citation standards (Law 23 of 1982, Art. 31).
- d) Absence of Plagiarism: The document is free of plagiarism, self-plagiarism, data fabrication, or manipulation.
- e) Conflicts of Interest: All financial sources, funding agencies, and economic, institutional, or personal conflicts of interest that could influence the results have been explicitly disclosed.

5. Indemnification

The authors assume exclusive civil, criminal, or administrative liability arising from any claims, disputes, or lawsuits related to copyright infringement, plagiarism, or impersonation initiated by third parties, holding the Journal of Sustainable Applied Innovation & Research (J-SAIR), its editors, and its editorial board harmless from any legal or extrajudicial actions.

6. Self-Archiving and Repository Policy

Authors are authorized to deposit the final publisher's version (Publisher's PDF) in institutional repositories, thematic repositories, or personal web pages immediately following publication, without an embargo period, under the condition of including the complete bibliographic citation and the official publication link / persistent URL (and DOI once assigned) of J-SAIR.
